Lorilynn Failor

Bio

Lorilynn was born in Iowa and raised in Tennessee. She is the third of four children. Her first acting experience was in high school where she was cast as Wilbur, the bratty son of James and Sally Smith. She went on to college and graduated from East Tennessee State University with a degree in Sales and Marketing while dabbling in Theater.

From college, Lorilynn moved to Nashville, TN where she worked in sales for the Coors Beer distributor and then began working as an Advertising Executive with Viacom Cable, the local cable company. After working 12 years on the other side of the camera, she re-entered the acting world after being cast in multiple commercials and a bit of theater as well.

Lorilynn moved to Los Angeles in 2002 to actively seek an acting career and has worked in plays, films, and commercials.

In addition to her acting, Lorilynn enjoys working for and with children in a volunteer capacity. While in Nashville she worked with and served on the boards for the The Exchange Club, a Child abuse prevention center, and for Dreammakers (Make a Wish Foundation). In LA she works with Hollygrove Child Center- a housing facility for abused foster children. She also reads for SAG's program BookPals. BookPALS is a unique all-volunteer literacy program. Professional actors visit public elementary schools in local neighborhoods to read aloud to children every week.

Lorilynn currently lives in Los Angeles with her two lab/shepards, Maddox and Braile. She is a huge sports fan and her favorite is hockey. Other interests include snowboarding, golf, & surfing – all of which she can enjoy within two hours of her home in California!
